題目: 「About the conservation of cultural landscapes」

Cultural landscapes have become a denomination of cultural heritage of increasing use in the nominations to the World Heritage List. However, there is a lack of a model of protection designed for this category, since traditional models use the culture/nature divide, as well as the tangible/intangible dichotomy. I explore this problem in cultural landscapes located in mountain areas, the Pyrenees and the Andes that follow two different models for protection: the National Park and the Archaeological Park. These examples show that the conservation system based on models of protection established under the separation of cultural heritage from natural heritage need to be reflected upon in order to develop appropriate strategies for heritage conservation.
